Legal Work

IS THE SUBJECT OF NEIGHBORHOOD GOSSIP

Recently a Western lawyer found in the files of an estate a letter describing how the writer had secured a homestead exemption. The following extract is a gem:

"He read a whole set of lawbooks on this thing, so I feel sure he knew how to make it out.

ISN'T there a worth-while half truth in this comment? Every lawyer knows that little legal research is required in drafting a homestead declaration. If the requirements of the statute are carefully complied with, few other points need checking.

The client doesn't know this. He supposes that the lawyer has read all the lawbooks in the law office. When the lawyer refers to lawbooks in the client's presence he raises himself in the estimation of the client.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE AT MEETING DEC. 27 - 28, 1946 DECIDES TO HOLD THE 40TH ANNUAL MEETING AT SANTA FE, N. M., JUNE 23 - 26, 1947

On the call of President Riggs, the Executive Committee met at the Sherman Hotel in Chicago, December 27-28, 1946. The officers and Mr. Coffee were present. [Miss Forgeus, Miss Newman and Mr. Price were unable to attend the meeting.] The Committee was substantially aided in its deliberations by the participation in the discussions by approximately twenty members of the Association who were also present at this meeting.

The Association accepted the invitation proffered by the Hon. Daniel K. Sadler, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of New Mexico, to hold the fortieth annual meeting of the Association in Santa Fe, New Mexico, in 1947. June 23-26, 1947, was agreed upon as the time for holding this meeting. Headquarters for the meeting will be at the La Fonda Hotel. President-elect Arie Poldervaart will be in charge of local arrangements.

The report of the Committee of Auditors of the books of the Association for the year June 1, 1945 to May 31, 1946, was read and accepted.

The new Editor of the Law Library Journal, Harrison MacDonald, Boston University Law Library, Boston, Mass., submitted prices from printers in his locality for the printing of volume 40 of the Journal. The prices constituted a ten-fifteen per cent increase in cost.

Carroll Moreland, Chairman of the Committee on Constitutional Revision, read a preliminary report and conducted a discussion on the constitution of the Association and the proposed changes in it. It is expected that the final report of this committee will appear in the May 1947 issue of the Journal.

Mr. Poldervaart, who has been operating the duplicate exchange for the Association, reported that the present system whereby ten cents is charged for each item matched is cumbersome. He recommended a flat charge of perhaps $5.00 per year for participating in the exchange. Mr. Poldervaart requested that someone be appointed to take over this work.

Sidney Hill, Chairman of the Special Committee to Draft a New Form of Application for Membership, which was created in June 1946, read a tentative draft of the form prepared by his committee. The Executive Committee is anxious to get the application for membership and literature descriptive of the activities and work of the Association into printed form.

Arrangements and accommodations for the meeting were made by Mr. Wm. S. Johnston of Chicago. The setting alone augured well for the success of the meeting. A keen interest in the activities and welfare of the Association was manifest.

Friendliness and good will pervaded the atmosphere. Associate member Henry Brandt's luncheon guests increased in number as the courses progressed. His guests, however, seemed to relish "hitching" closer and closer together to make way for new arrivals, each one of whom seemed to be just the member who was needed to complete the party. If dessert had not arrived when it did, it may have become necessary to transfer from the private dining room of the Sherman to the banquet hall.

At the close of the afternoon meeting refreshments [de gustibus non est disputandum] and Associate members Dorothea Blender and Fred Dennis arrived almost simultaneously to bridge the gap preceding the dinner hour.

Friday night Mr. Johnston gave a dinner at the Athletic Club in honor of President Riggs. Mr. Johnston had planned to entertain the group in the Hunt Room but ere the dinner hour arrived he had invited so many it required the Trophy Room to accommodate the group. Seated 'round the table, with the many silver and gold trophies in the background, the group had the semblance of a reunion of an oversized family which had convened from practically all corners of the United States. Mr. Johnston, in his inimitable manner, contrived to turn each and every one of his guests into an after-dinner speaker.

Thus friendly and informal gatherings 'round a table deftly interspersed the brief meeting the Association in Chicago, December 27-28, 1946.

Respectfully submitted,

HELEN M. S. HELMLE,
Executive-Secretary

TENTATIVE PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO THE CONSTITUTION AND BY-LAWS OF THE AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF LAW LIBRARIES

The Committee on the Revision of the Constitution is taking this opportunity to present to the members tentative proposals for the revision of the Constitution in the hope that it may receive comment and suggestions from members of the Association. Under the terms of the Constitution, the proposals as finally drafted must be in the hands of the Secretary by the 15th of April. A prompt response to our request for suggestions is, therefore, imperative. Please address the suggestions to the chairman, Biddle Law Library, University of Pennsylvania, 3400 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

CONSTITUTION

New Matter Italicized: Deleted Matter in Brackets

Section 4. (b) Any law library may become an institutional member upon the payment of such dues as are provided in the By-Laws for institutional members. [Full time regular employed members of the staff of an institutional member, not to exceed eight, shall be entitled to regular membership in the Association without the payment of additional dues.] The executive committee is empowered to determine whether the institution applying for membership is a law library.

Comment. The matter eliminated here is included in the Revision of the By-Laws, section 1. c.

Section 6 (a) The Association may, at any regular meeting, by vote of two-thirds of those present, elect non-members as honorary members who shall be exempt from dues.

Comment. In the past there has been some confusion because members have been elected honorary life members. Honorary membership should be definitely reserved for non-members.

Section 6. (b) The Association may at any regular meeting, by a vote of two-thirds of those present, elect to life membership those who have been regular members of the Association, but who have retired from active library work by reason of illness or age. Such members shall be exempt from dues. Life membership shall cease when the life member becomes eligible for regular membership or by reason of commercial activities becomes eligible for associate membership.

Comment. It seems advisable to indicate that only regular members of the Association may be elected to life membership. As life members have the right to vote, it seems inconsistent that an associate member who does not have the right to vote might be elected to life membership and thus have the privilege of voting. It seems well to indicate the reason for retirement from active library work in order that a regular member may be elected to life membership.

Under the present constitution, life membership apparently only ends with the death of the member. Situations may arise in which the life member returns to active library work in which case he should be a regular member, or engages in such activities as to warrant his being considered in the category of those eligible for associate membership.

Section 7. The right of holding office [and voting] shall be restricted to regular [and life] members and the right of voting shall be restricted to regular, and life members.

Comment. A life member having retired from active library work by reason of illness or age, is probably not in a position to be active as an officer of the Association. The change in this paragraph limits the right of holding office to regular members, but does not change the right of voting.

[Section 8. In all matters of business each regular member shall be entitled to one vote.]

Comment. This section seems unnecessary.

Section [9] 8. The officers shall consist of a president, president-elect, and an executive secretary who shall also act as treasurer, all of whom shall be elected [by ballot at the annual meeting] annually by the Association. At the end of each year the president, who shall not under any circumstances be eligible for election for a consecutive term, shall be automatically succeeded by the president-elect, provided, however, that in the event of the death or resignation of the president at any time during his (her) term of office, the president-elect shall immediately become the president and shall serve until the second election of a president-elect thereafter. Except for his (her) duties as a member of the executive committee [and as chairman of the advisory committee on planning as hereinafter provided.], the president-elect shall perform only such duties as usually attach to the office of vice-president. In the event of the death or resignation of both the president and the president-elect, the executive committee shall appoint one of its members to act as president until a president and president-elect are duly elected, and in the event of the death or resignation of the executive secretary, the executive committee shall appoint an executive secretary who shall hold office until his (her) successor is elected. The president and president-elect shall serve without compensation and the executive secretary shall receive such compensation as the Association shall provide.

Comment. If we are to have an annual mail ballot, it is necessary to change the wording in the beginning of this paragraph as is indicated. As there is no advisory committee on planning, reference to this committee has been removed.

Section [10] 9. There shall be an executive committee of seven, consisting of the officers mentioned in section [9] 8, the last retiring president, and three members elected [at the annual meeting] by the Association. Each elected member shall serve for three years, provided that at the 1948 election three members shall be elected for terms of one, two and three years: thereafter, one member shall be elected each year. Vacancies created through non-acceptance, resignation or death shall be filled by the executive committee. The duties of the officers and of the executive committee shall be those usually assigned to such officers in similar associations. Officers and members of committees shall serve until their successors are duly elected or appointed and qualified.

Comment. The substitution of, "by the Association" for "At the annual meeting" will be necessary if there is to be an annual mail ballot. The committee is suggesting staggered terms for the elected members of the Executive Committee. This is followed in most associations and serves to give continuity.

Section [11] 10. In addition to the executive committee, nominating committee and election committee there shall be such other standing and special committees as the executive committee may from time to time create. All committee members shall be appointed by the president unless the Association shall otherwise direct.

Comment. Two new committees have been inserted in this section.

Section 11. Nominations. Not later than August 1, of each year, the President shall appoint a nominating committee of five members, no one of whom shall be a member of the executive committee, to nominate candidates for the elective positions of president, president-elect, executive secretary, and membership on the executive committee. Two candidates for each membership on the executive committee shall be presented.

Names of candidates, together with their written acceptances, shall be presented by the nominating committee to the president, in sufficient time to enable the president to have the nominations printed in the November issue of the Law Library Journal, or to inform the members by mail prior to January 1.

Other nominations: Further nominations, except for the office of president, may be made upon written petition of two voting members in good standing. Such petitions, accompanied by written acceptances of the nominees, must be filed with the executive secretary of the American Association of Law Libraries not later than March 1.

The executive secretary shall prepare an official ballot, including nominations by petition, if any. The professional position of each nominee shall appear on this ballot.

Section 12. Elections. The President shall appoint a committee on elections which shall have charge of the conduct of the annual election and the counting and tabulation of all votes cast.

Prior to May 1, the executive secretary shall mail a copy of the ballot to each member of the Association. Ballots shall be marked, sealed in plain envelopes, and returned to the executive secretary before June 1, in covering envelopes bearing on the outside the name and address of the member voting, together with the words "Official Ballot." The executive secretary shall check on a list of members the names of all members whose votes are received.

The candidates receiving the largest number of votes shall be declared elected and shall be so reported at the business session of the annual meeting by the Committee on Elections. In case of a tie vote, the successful candidate shall be determined by lot conducted by the Committee on Elections. In case there is no annual meeting, the report of the Committee on Elections shall be printed in the first issue of the Law Library Journal following the report of the Committee on Elections or, in case the Law Library Journal has ceased to be published, shall be mailed to the members by the secretary before July 1.

Comment. These sections provide for the method of nominating candidates for office, and for their election by annual mail ballot. At the St. Louis meeting, the majority of those present favored an annual mail ballot.

Sections 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, and 17 are to be renumbered 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, and 18.

By-Laws

Section 1 (a) [The annual dues of regular individual members (Persons who are heads of law libraries) shall be $5.00 per year. The dues of library assistants shall be $3.00 per year.] The annual dues of regular members shall be: for those who are heads of law libraries or separately maintained law sections $5.00 per year; for all others, $3.00 per year. Each member shall receive the Law Library Journal as a part of said membership. The year for dues shall begin on June 1st in each and every year, and the Association's fiscal year shall begin on June 1st in each and every year.

Comment. The new language with regard to dues has been changed to conform to the language of the Constitution.

Section 1 (b) The annual dues of associate members shall be $10.00 per year.

Section 1 (c) The annual dues of institutional members shall be based upon the number of full time persons employed by such institutional members according to the following scale:

(1) Libraries having one or two full time persons in their employ shall pay $10.00 per year.

(2) Libraries having more than two full time persons in their employ shall pay annual dues at the rate of $5.00 for each such person on their staffs, provided, however, that no library shall be required to pay dues in excess of $40.00 per year in order to enjoy the full privileges of an institutional member. Each institutional member shall receive the Law Library Journal as a part of said membership.

Such persons on the staff of an institutional member as are designated by the librarian and for whom the institutional member has paid

$5.00 each as its annual dues, shall be entitled to regular membership in the Association without the payment of additional dues. Such regular memberships may be transferred at any time at the request of the librarian.

Comment. Institutional members should have a free copy of the Law Library Journal as part of their memberships, particularly since the Law Library Journal is practically self-supporting. It is the belief of the committee that the additional paragraph with regard to members on the staff of an institutional member takes care of a possible inconsistency. Under the terms of this section, an institutional member must pay $5.00 for each full time person on its staff, if there are no more than eight. If there are nine or more, the institutional member need not pay more than $40.00, but the number of persons on the staff who would be entitled to regular membership will be limited to eight. However, if the institutional member wishes to pay its dues at the rate of $5.00 each for nine or more persons on its staff, it may do so. Those members of the staff designated by the Librarian, and for whom the library pays $5.00 as its annual dues, shall be entitled to regular membership.

COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY OFFERS LAW LIBRARY ADMINISTRATION COURSE IN 1947

The Columbia University School of Library Service is to offer its course in Law Library Administration again under the direction of Miles O. Price, Librarian of the Columbia University Law Library. The term extends from July 7 to August 15. Applications for admission should be made to the School of Library Service.

TO LAW LIBRARIANS OF THE UNITED STATES AND CANADA

Santa Fe, N. M., March 29—In view of the probable lateness in publication of the Law Library Journal due to printing difficulties, we wish to give you a tentative outline of local arrangements for the annual meeting of the American Association of Law Libraries here next June 23 through June 26. The details for the business sessions are, of course, being arranged by President Riggs and Secretary Helmle.

On Monday morning, June 23, registration will be from 8:30 to 10:00. The opening session will begin at 10 o'clock at which Justice Daniel K. Sadler of the New Mexico Supreme Court will give the address of welcome and Mayor Manuel Lujan of this City of the Holy Faith will give a short talk on "The Antiquity of Old Santa Fe." The morning program will conclude with a tour of the Supreme Court Bldg. and the New Mexico Law Library.

Following the afternoon business session Mrs. and Governor Thomas J. Mabry of the state of New Mexico will entertain with a reception at the Executive Mansion. The Association's annual banquet will be held Monday evening at La Fonda with Judge Henry A. Kiker as toastmaster and with some farsical entertainment by members of the Santa Fe Bar Association, and an address by Governor Mabry as the principal features.

Tuesday morning, June 24, will be given over to another business session. For Tuesday afternoon a sightseeing trip is being arranged to include Bandelier National Monument, San Ildefonso Indian Pueblo (famous for its black pottery), and at least one additional point of special interest.

Wednesday morning, June 25, will be devoted to another business session. At 12:15 an Officers' Luncheon is being planned at the Original Mexican Cafe just across the Rio de Santa Fe from the Supreme Court Bldg. Following the afternoon business session it is planned to make a brief tour of interesting places around the Plaza, including a stop at the old Candelario Trading Post with its treasure well, Indian scalps, etc., a tour of the State Museum, and concluding with a tea party in the patio at the Old Palace of the Governors, through courtesy of the State Library Commission and the Museum of New Mexico. Wednesday evening an informal dinner is scheduled at La Fonda, which will be highlighted by a program of typical southwestern Spanish music, singing and dances, and a brief talk along "a lighter vein" by former Supreme Court Justice John C. Watson.

For Thursday morning a tour including visits to St. Francis Cathedral (about which Willa Cather wrote in her book "Death Comes for the Archbishop"), the oldest house, Old San Miguel Mission, Laboratory of Anthropology, and Museum of Navajo Ceremonial Art. To wind up the meeting a box lunch or a southwestern barbecue to be held at Hyde State Park in a heavily timbered mountain setting a short distance northeast of the city is being considered.

Hotel reservations for the meeting are coming through in a steady procession. In fact, about all the available rooms at La Fonda, our headquarters hotel, have been reserved. However, the management advises that requests for "single" room reservations were unusually heavy and that a large number of single room reservations were filled by assigning double rooms. The management suggests that if any of those for whom "single" room reservations have been confirmed wish to double up with others with whom they may be acquainted who are planning to attend, quite a number of additional persons could be accommodated. Other nearby hotels included in our announcement list of two months ago still report available rooms, but all of them urge that requests for reservations be made immediately.

We have asked the hotels to advise us if and when they are no longer able to accept additional reservations and to turn any requests which they can not fill over to us. We will then endeavor to make a tentative reservation elsewhere, in which case we will communicate with the party requesting the reservation so as to determine whether the arrangements we have made are acceptable.

Here is an incomplete but representative list of some of our members who are planning to attend based upon actual hotel reservations which have come to our attention in one way or another. The list is by no means complete and as indicated before additional reservations are coming in daily:

Mrs. Adeline J. Clarke, State Law Librarian, Helena, Montana; Mr. Miles O. Price, Law Librarian, Columbia University, New York 27, New York; Mr. A. Mercer Daniel, Law Librarian, Howard University, Washington 1, D. C.; Mrs. Bernita J. Davies, Law Librarian, University of Illinois, Urbana, Illinois; Miss Helen G. Ross, 1454 Field Building, Chicago, Illinois; Mr. George A. Johnston, Law Society of Upper Canada, Toronto 1, Canada; Miss Frances Farmer, Law Librarian, University of Virginia, Charlottesville, Virginia; Mr. William R. Roalfe, Elbert H. Gary Library of Law, Chicago 11, Illinois; Miss Helen Hargrave, Law Librarian, University of Texas, Austin 12, Texas; Mr. Harold J. Bowen, New Haven County Law Library, New Haven, Conn.; Mrs. Marian G. Gallagher, Law Librarian, University of Washington, Seattle, Washington; Miss Jean Ashman, Law Librarian, Indiana University School of Law, Bloomington, Indiana; Mr. Fred O. CLASS K (LAW) AT THE UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO

By ELIZABETH V. BENYON

Senior Assistant in Charge of Preparations, The Law Library, The University of Chicago

The classification of law books in the Library of the University of Chicago has received considerable attention since 1941. Interest in this matter originated in connection with the classification of a relatively small collection of incompletely classified law material in the general Library. When, at a later date, it was decided that all law books should be located in the adjacent Law School Library, and that the entire collection should be fully classified, definite plans were formulated for a classification scheme which would coordinate the subject of law, adequately broken down, with other subjects. The arrangement herein described was designed, therefore, strictly for a collection of law materials which form a part of a general collection, and not for an autonomous law library.

The books in the general Library and the non-legal materials in the Law Library are classified according to the Library of Congress system. The fact that this system to date[1] does not adequately break down the class for Law, and that it provides for the legal aspects of a subject under the subject necessitated careful consideration of the principles which should be employed in the classification of the collection. A survey in 1941 by Dr. Maurice F. Tauber of law classification practice in college and university libraries using the L.C. classification disclosed that in the absence of an L.C. printed schedule for Law, eleven special schemes have been compiled.[2] In all probability, other schemes have been developed since. The law classification compiled by Miss Margaret Butterfield for use in the library at the University of Rochester is an example of this type.[3] Even though these classifications may suggest references to law in the various L.C. schedules, they do not provide sufficient or satisfactory breakdown for materials which rightly should class under Law. Furthermore, the facts mentioned above have fostered the practice of forcing into various subject classes legal materials which better class under Law, with the result that the legalist finds his materials scattered, when properly he has some claim to find them under the subject "Law." There has been considerable discussion[4] concerning the need and type of subject breakdown to meet the approach of the legalist, and several schemes have been devised which attempt to handle the problem, and to which L.C. notation may be adapted.[5] These schemes, however, do not tie up with the specific approach to the legal aspects of subjects which is provided in the L.C. schedules. Therefore, it was deemed necessary to devise a breakdown for Law which integrates to a considerable extent the advantages of all these schemes.

[1] Report of the Librarian of Congress for 1940-41 (Washington, 1942), p. 21: It is "recommended by Librarian's Committee and by Officers of the Processing Department that a classification schedule for law be developed." Report of the Librarian of Congress for 1941-42 (Washington, 1943) p. 18: "In the development of a classification schedule for law no action has been taken other than the continued preparation by a Law Library committee of basic data for the schedule." Letter from the Law Librarian of Congress to the Librarian of the University of Chicago Law School, February 12, 1946: "There is no special classification adopted by the Processing Department of the Library of Congress for the books that come into the Law Library. K has never been developed here."

In the attempt to solve the problems which presented themselves, three definite points were constantly kept in mind. First, the scheme should follow the principles of the L.C. system in arrangement and notation; Second, it should provide equally well for the legalist and for the historian, the political scientist, and any other subject specialist whose primary interest is to locate legal materials related to his field, rather than to examine the materials specifically for the content of law as law; and Third, it should reflect current classification practice, since reclassification and double classification should be kept to a minimum.

Several points regarding the classification should be noted. Since the Library of Congress has designated K as the class letter for Law, this symbol, with letter combinations, has been used. Tables of subdivisions similar to those in the L.C. schedules have been employed and so far as possible similar terminology has been introduced.

In the belief that form plays an important part in both the legalist's and non-legalist's search for Law materials, form breakdown has been made a predominant one. Two basic divisions are those of primary materials, collected together in class K, and secondary materials, in classes KA to KG. Form divisions are also used in each of these. For example, primary materials are arranged as statutes, court reports, and administrative decisions, while secondary materials are broken down as treatises, biography, bibliography, study and teaching, etc.

Also in the belief that the legalist and non-legalist for research purposes conceive law as national, a geographic Price, "The need for subject classification to facilitate reasarch in foreign law," College and Research Libraries, II, No. 2 (March, 1941), pp. 146-50.

Schiller, "The reclassification and supplemental cataloging of books in Columbia Law Library: a survey" (New York: Columbia Univ. law library, 1938). (Mimeographed) arrangement appears throughout. Although the conception of law as Anglo-American and foreign adopted in the K and KB-KG classes is not a purely geographic one, it carries definite geographic implications. Under Anglo-American law the breakdown is by country; under foreign law, the breakdown is first by continent and then by country. Not all law, however, can rightly be considered territorial, and a satisfactory treatment of such is under system. Likewise, because of the many migrations, frequent changes in sovereignty, and the meagerness of state law in early times, ancient law as well as medieval law before the rise of national states is treated under system. Law which had its origin in the ancient and medieval world is dealt with, therefore, under the ancient and medieval periods of the history of law provided for in class KA, whereas the ancient and medieval periods of law which exists in the modern states are treated under the country in classes K, KB-KG.

Although the scheme is not a theoretical subject classification, some subject breakdown is suggested. A number has been designated in class K for an alphabetical arrangement by subject of statutes, of court reports, and of administrative decisions. Again, in the KA-KG classes, numbers have been provided for "Special topics", under some of the form divisions, thus separating the specific from the general. Treatise sections are not broken down by subject. For example, Bogert, Trusts and trustees, Pound, The spirit of the common law, and Williston, A treatise on the law of contracts, are arranged alphabetically by author in KB under the number for Treatises on Anglo-American law. Likewise, Buckland, Equity in Roman law, Hunter, Introduction to Roman law, and Zulueta, The Roman law of sales, are arranged alphabetically by author in KA under the number for Treatises on Roman law. A block of numbers will be reserved in each case, for a breakdown, if and when it becomes desirable.

While providing for law materials in K, the classification, by means of references throughout, indicates the numbers in L.C. schedules where law material also may be classed. This makes it possible to take USE into consideration, and thereby provide to some extent for the subject specialist in other fields than law. For libraries using the L.C. system, it also makes possible a review of current classification practice, which should keep double classification and reclassification to a minimum. Two examples follow of the use made of this feature in the project herein described. It was ascertained that the larger collection of ecclesiastical law is classed satisfactorily with other materials on religion, and that a greater use is made of it by persons interested in that field than by persons interested in law. Therefore, BV 759-764 and BX 1935-1943, 5151-5155 were accepted as the classes for this subject. Roman law, on the other hand, is not broken down under DG 88, the number for Roman legal antiquities. The Roman law collection in the Law School Library was not appreciably smaller or less-used than the collection classed in DG for the convenience of the classicist. For these reasons, Roman law classifies in K. A comprehensive index lists classification numbers, whether K or non-K.

To date, the classification has been applied to the primary materials for the United States, and to certain subjects. It has been tested, by theoretical application, to the remainder of the Law collection, whether housed in the Law School Library (115,000) or in another library. Even though the detailed schedule reflects the University of Chicago Library practice of classifying some materials in non-K classes, the schedule attempts to provide numbers for all law materials. In view of the ever-present possibility that the Library of Congress may develop the K class, many libraries using that system will not wish to adopt the schedule. Since the index collects in one list the numbers for law in all the L.C. schedules, it should prove a valuable tool for all libraries using the L.C. classification. It is believed that larger law libraries, even if operating as separate entities, can adopt the breakdowns suggested in the scheme for the legal materials in the library, and provide any satisfactory breakdown for non-legal materials they may choose, developing a notation system which includes both. Smaller law libraries, and general libraries with meager collections of law, may find it sufficient to use only the K and KA classes, placing material on Anglo-American and foreign law with that of a general and comparative nature together under the forms listed in the latter. If this is desired, the heading Treatises, textbooks, casebooks, etc., may be substituted for those of Law as a science and History of law.

It is hoped that the project can be brought to a close within the next few months. Whether or not the entire detailed schedule will be published for distribution will depend upon any interest which may be shown in the matter. The detailed schedule for source materials collected as comparative studies (K1-30), and United States primary materials (K33-1525), together with a synopsis of the remaining sections of the classification follow.

OSCAR DeFOREST CLARKE

Oscar DeForest Clarke, Librarian of the Supreme Court of the United States, died in his sleep at the age of seventy-one, Saturday morning, February 22, 1947, at his residence, 3034 Newark Street, Washington, D. C., after an illness of several weeks.

A member of the American Association of Law Libraries, Mr. Clarke contributed two important articles to the Law Library Journal "The Library of the Supreme Court of the United States" was published in the May, 1938 number, and "Our Set of the Litchfield Law School Notebooks" appeared in the November, 1938 number. An address delivered by Mr. Clarke on Nevember 16, 1942, before the Law Librarians' Society of Washington, D. C., is given in full in the Society's Annual Report for 1943. Recently he had written an article about the Supreme Court for the 1947 Americana Annual.

Mr. Clarke served the Supreme Court for forty-six years under Chief Justices Melville W. Fuller, Edward Douglass White, William Howard Taft, Charles Evans Hughes, Harlan Fiske Stone, and Frederick Moore Vinson. He succeeded Mr. Frank K. Green as Court Librarian February 1, 1915. His father, Henry DeForest Clarke, was appointed to the staff of the Supreme Court by Chief Justice Salmon Portland Chase, and in 1887 he became the first Librarian of the Court. Mr. Oscar Clarke was appointed a library assistant by Chief Justice Melville W. Fuller in March, 1900. During the forty-six years he served on the Library staff he knew thirty-seven of the total number of eighty-five Justices appointed to the Court. As a mark of respect to Mr. Clarke the flags in front of the Supreme Court Building were flown at half mast for three days following his death.

Born in Washington, D. C., in 1875, he attended the local public schools, and was graduated in law from Columbian University, now The George Washington University, in the class of 1898.

Mr. Clarke was a member of the Rotary Club of Showhegan, Maine, where he had a summer home.

He is survived by his widow, Imogene Bohrer Clarke, to whom he was married in 1901, and a brother, Winfield S. Clarke both of this city.

Canon Curtis Draper, of Washington Cathedral, officiated at the services Tuesday, February 25th. Mr. Clarke was buried in the family plot in the Congressional Cemetery.

In the Court's Journal for Monday, March 3, 1947, The Chief Justice said:

"It is my sad duty to announce that on February 22, during the recess of the Court, its Librarian, Mr. Oscar D. Clarke, died.

"To every undertaking Mr. Clarke brought precise knowledge and broad experience in library science; he was courteous and helpful beyond the scope of prescribed duty. The severance of this long association brings to us a sense of deep sorrow for he had endeared himself to many Justices during the years of his close relationship with the Court.

"The Court records its appreciation of Mr. Clarke's high character and of the effective aid he long rendered to it and expresses its sincere sympathy to his widow and the members of his family."

RE-OPENING OF THE MIDDLE TEMPLE LIBRARY

By A. R. Hewitt,

Assistant Librarian Honorary Society of the Middle Temple

Her Majesty the Queen, a Master of the Bench of the Middle Temple, has graciously consented to open the new Temporary Library of that Inn on 21st November, 1946.

The Middle Temple Library, like other law libraries in London, suffered severely from enemy action during the late war, although it was fortunate enough to have preserved its collection of books. Of the Inns of Court, Lincoln's Inn was the only one to escape damage (apart from the loss of windows). The Inner Temple lost its building and more than half its books, while Gray's Inn lost its building and entire collection, both by fire and high explosive. The Bar Library, in the Royal Courts of Justice, and the Law Society both fortunately escaped with minor structural damage.

The old Middle Temple Library in the Garden was built in 1861 and was opened by King Edward VII, when Prince of Wales. That building, although it had a grandeur of its own, could not be described as "suitable" for library purposes from the modern viewpoint. It was ecclesiastic in style with the result that much valuable space was wasted. Although the building did not receive a direct hit during the war it was shattered and blasted on five occasions. The bulk of the books, after having been blown from the shelves on one occasion into a confused heap mixed with debris, soot and garden mould, were removed to a place of safety in the country during the summer of 1941, where they remained until October, 1946. Out of approximately 75,000 volumes only one was irreparably damaged but many bindings naturally suffered severely, and it is feared that some years will elapse before the library regains its former neat and orderly appearance. For a time a small working library was provided in the Common Room but a flying bomb which fell very near the building in July, 1944, made it too dangerous for further use. The Benchers of Lincoln's Inn have been generous enough to afford Members of the Middle Temple the use of their Library until the present time.

It is believed that a new permanent library cannot be contemplated for, probably, ten or twelve years and the new structure, although described as a "temporary" library, is substantially built and will certainly remain sound and habitable for a period well in excess of that time. It has been erected on the site of Nos. 2 and 3 Brick Court, Temple (which were destroyed in December 1940) over a very large emergency water tank, the well of which serves as the basement book store. Girders of three military huts have been adapted to provide the steel framework of the building but the greater part of the remaining material used has been salvaged from war damaged buildings in the Temple. The walls are of used bricks and the roof is constructed mainly of timber from the old building covered with rubberoid. The concrete floor, doors, windows and plumbing are, of course, of new material. The book cases and wall shelves are all from the old library. The building is of the bungalow type and covers an area of 4,525 square feet, while the basement book store measures 3,320 square feet. The accommodation provided is one main reading and reference room, librarian's room, assistant librarian's room, entrance passage, cloakroom and toilets. Part of the building is set aside as a small Common Room with kitchen and housekeeper's room.

The exterior of the building is covered with cement and the interior walls have been treated with cream- and white-wash. The ceiling has been paper-lined and white-washed. The floors are carpeted with the Indian and Turkish carpets from the old building; these, fortunately, escaped serious damage. A temporary system of electric lighting is being used but shortly fluorescent strip lighting will be installed. The heating system has been installed by Messrs. Air Heating Ltd.

The main room houses approximately 25,000 books, while the basement book store accommodates approximately 50,000 volumes with space for more than ten years' growth. Readers do not have direct access to the books in the store. At the present moment book-stacks have not been provided in the store owing to the difficulty of supply, but it is hoped that steel or wooden shelving will be available before very long. Until such time as this shelving is installed, books are stacked in convenient piles on boards or housed in the remains of the old library.

The sorting of the books is proving an enormous task as the need for speed in getting them away to the country made it quite impossible for orderly despatch. Several Masters of the Bench and Members of the Inn, however, volunteered to help with the work of sorting on the return of the books. The selection of works for inclusion in the main room, to which the Readers have direct access, has been made difficult by reason of the limited space available. Generally, it has been confined to current British, Indian, Dominion, Colonial, International and American law with a small selection of general literature, biographical works and reference books. The earlier law books and books on other subjects, The Times, the London Gazette, Parliamentary Papers and Parliamentary Debates will be accommodated in the book store.

The former printed catalogue is being edited, the author entries being made on cards and the subject index in loose-leaf books. The heavy task of shelf marking has not yet begun but will be commenced as soon as the final arrangement of books on the shelves has been completed. Until that time arrives, readers will be obliged to rely on the departmental arrangement of books and on the memory of the library staff.

The Library Association Record November, 1946.

PREPARED BY HOWARD L. STEBBINS
Librarian, Social Law Library

FOREWORD

The mailing list for the Massachusetts Law Quarterly has been revised and in future all libraries on the list will receive their copies from the Social Law Library. Furthermore, the Social Law Library has acquired the printer's entire stock of back numbers from volume 1 to date. Every reasonable effort will be made to supply back issues and fill gaps in partial sets. For single copies and small consignments there will be no charge. All correspondence regarding the Quarterly should be addressed: Social Law Library, 1200 Court House, Boston, 8, Mass.

The following checklist is believed to be bibliographically complete. Paging is extremely irregular, individual issues often containing several runs of page numbering. LETTER FROM ERNEST S. GRIFFITH

The following letter from Mr. Ernest S. Griffith, Director Legislative Reference Service of the Library of Congress, was recently received by Mr. Miles O. Price, Librarian of Columbia University Law Library. Mr. Griffith, it will be remembered, presented a paper at the St. Louis conference last June, on the statutory indexing work done under his direction. Mr. Price feels that law librarians generally should urge the printing up-to-date of the McClenon and Gilbert index, in some form or other: (Ed.)

February 6, 1947

Mr. Miles O. Price
Law Librarian
Columbia University
New York 27, N. Y.

Dear Mr. Price:

We greatly appreciate the interest which you have shown in the publication by the Legislative Reference Service of an Index to the Federal Statutes —similar to the McClenon and Gilbert index, now very much out of date. We, ourselves, have recognized the importance of this for our own work and evidence of a similar demand on the part of others reenforces our own belief that perhaps the time is approaching for such a supplement or revision.

If a demand is in fact demonstrated in addition to our need, we would be glad to consider including an item for such an Index in our 1949 estimates.

Cordially yours,

ERNEST S. GRIFFITH, Director
Legislative Reference Service

CURRENT COMMENTS

Death of Rosamond Parma

Miss Rosamond Parma, Life Member of the American Association of Law Libraries, died on October 24, 1946. Miss Parma was President of the Association in 1931 and 1932, and had contributed a number of articles to the Law Library Journal. She was Librarian of the Law Library of the University of California from 1911 to 1935, when she retired on account of illness. In addition to her work as Librarian of the Law Library she was a lecturer in Legal Bibliography in the School of Jurisprudence of the University of California. She received a J. D. degree from the University of California in 1919 and was a member of Kappa Beta Pi legal sorority.

Miss Elliott Writes History of North Carolina Law Library

The June, 1946 number of the North Carolina Law Review contains at page 402 a "History of the Law Library" written by Miss Lucile Elliott, Law Librarian. A "Century of Legal Education", by Albert Coates which begins at page 307 of the same number gives an account of the legal profession and legal education in North Carolina.

University of Miami Announces New Publication

The University of Miami School of Law and the Dade County Bar Association are publishing the Miami Law Review which will be issued quarterly in February, May, August, and November. The subscription price is $3.00 a year.

Harvard Library Publishes Bulletin

Harvard Library Bulletin, volume 1, number 1, Winter, 1947, has just been received. The Foreword by Keyes D. Metcalf states that . . . "it will represent all the Harvard libraries, eighty-two in number, and its content will deal primarily with these libraries, with the results of research based upon their holdings, and with more general library problems in the light of Harvard theory and experience." The Bulletin will be published three times a year in the Winter, Spring, Autumn. The subscription price is $4.00 a year.

Three Members Interviewed by the Press

HAROLD BOWEN, Law Librarian of the New Haven County Law Library, is called "lawyer, librarian, singer, pianist, hiker, historian and athlete" in a splendid article about him which appeared in an August 1946 issue of the Bridgeport Herald. The article tells us that Chick is "hailed as the 'walking encyclopedia' by members of the bar all over the State" and that "at a moment's notice he can give out detailed information as to hundreds of points of law and past decisions. . ." His library is considered the best equipped county law library in Connecticut.

ALEX MADDOX, bookbinder, is described, in an interview by Elizabeth Oldfield in the December 13, 1946 Washington Times-Herald, as a "peripatetic book doctor". Mr. Maddox is known by many members of the Association whose libraries he has restored. At the present time he is completing the Elbridge T. Gerry Collection in the Library of the Supreme Court of the United States. One of his assistants is working in the Law Library of the University of Virginia and will soon commence restoration of the valuable John Bassett Moore Collection presented to the University by the distinguished international jurist.

HELEN NEWMAN, Associate Librarian of the Supreme Court of the United States, was also interviewed by Elizabeth Oldfield and an article about her was published in the December 4, 1946 issue of the Washington Times-Herald.

Miss Jenkins Prepares Bibliography of Supreme Court Justices

The Library of the Supreme Court of the United States has undertaken the compilation of a bibliography of everything written about the Court, and by or about its Justices. The active work in preparing the bibliography is being carried on by Miss Gertrude Jenkins who was secretary for twenty years to the late Chief Justice Harlan F. Stone. Inquiries have been made of all historical societies in states from which the Justices came. Dr. Julian P. Boyd, Librarian of Princetown University, wrote that "most of the extant manuscripts of William Paterson are located in the Princeton University Library, and few of them have been used by any biographers of Paterson". Mr. R. N. Williams, Director of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania, told Miss Jenkins that their archives contain about 1,500 items of James Wilson's papers, including a draft of the Constitution and a corrected copy of it. A letter from Mr. Henry Howard Eddy, Acting Director of the North Carolina Department of Archives and History, stated that James Iredell's papers are on file there, and that a thesis on Mr. Justice Iredell has been prepared by Miss Nettie Southworth Herndon, and that in its preparation she went through the files "inch by inch" combing out Iredell material.

Miss Jenkins will be glad to answer inquiries from other libraries for references about the Court and its members, and she will appreciate receiving from other libraries lists of any special material which they may have including manuscripts, letters, speeches, and other unpublished documents.
